THE AMERICAN NAVY.

Secretary Long Recommends an Increase in Ships and Men.

suggests the Revival of the Grade of Vice Admiral and An Increase in the Number of Cadets.

Washington, Nov. 16 .- The keynote of the annual report of Secretary Long for 1901 is "increase," and increase in both the number of ships and the number of officers and sailors for the navy.

"The navy to-day," he says, "is a far greater factor in our relations with the world than it was before the recent national expansion, which now includes Porto Rico, the Hawaiian islands, the vast area of land and sea in the Philippines, and our obligations to Cuba. If we are to have a navy at all, it must be commensurate with these great extensionsgreater in international than in territorial importance."

The secretary's recommendation for new construction based on the report of the general board headed by Adm. Dewey and that of the board of construction is as follows:

Three first-class battleships, two first-class armored cruisers, three gunboats, each of about 1,000 tons trial displacement; three gunboats, each of about 200 tons trial displacement, for insular service; three picket boats, each of about 650 tons trial displacement; three steel sailing training ships, each of about 2,000 tons trial displacement; one collier of about 15,000 tons trial displacement; four towbcats.

All the vessels recommended in these two reports, says Secretary Long, are desirable in the prospective and harmonious development of our naval force, and a larger increase this year than usual is desirable because none were made last year.

The secretary places emphasis on the necessity for more line officers and more enlisted men. He recommends that the number of lieutenants be increased from 300 to 350, and that the limit of the number of junior lieutenants and ensigns be placed at 600. As to the enlisted men, he recommends that that force be increased by 3,000 men.

Another pressing need set out in the secretary's report is that for a national naval reserve, which was so strongly advocated by President Roosevelt when he was assistant secretary of the navy.

In connection with the subject of naval personnel, Secretary Long makes a number of important recommendations as follows: The revival of the grade of vice admiral, an increase of 50 per eent. in the number of cadets at the naval academy, an increase of the marine corps by 750 men, increase in the corps of naval constructors and of civil engineers, and no further appointments to the office of professor of matchmatics.

THE X RAYS.

A New Apparatus Designed For a Stereoptie Vision of Broken Bones, Etc.

New York, Nov. 16.-E. W. Caldwell describes in the current Electrical Review new apparatus designed for stereopic vision by X rays. It has been developed in the laboratory at the Bellevue Hospital Medical college, New York city. By using two sources of X rays in the same tube each eye views independently the shadow, with the result that the picture stands L out distinctly, showing all the space relations of the objects viewed. It is thought that this method will be of the most value in surgery, permitting immediate examination of broken bones, etc., as if they were viewed by the eye with their positions accurately indicated, instead of in silhoulette effect, as formerly.

As a result of this advice Johnny Wise turned in the following composition: "We should not attempt any flites of fancy, but rite what is in us. In me thare is my stummick, lungs, hart, liver, two apples, one piece of pie, one stick lemon candy and my dinner.—Baltimore American.
